Wotcha, + welcome to the first edition of BIGOT, yeah! Thank to anyone who actually bought their copy from me (no thank at all, whatsoever to anyone if they made off with an armful of Bicots after having thumped me + left me for dead)

ANYWAY... This is my first attempt at going 'solo' on a mag. like this, and at the moment I have no idea if I'll ever try again... So keep your copy in a safe place and if I never ever do another edition, in a few years it may be worth thousands of £. Ha Ha.

In BIGOT, I've tried to write down a few of my thoughts in an understandable way. I hope you'll be able to fight your way through the hordes of wild scribblings leaping from every page, and if you come out of the ordeal alive, I'd be more than joyous to hear your comments etc. (no letter bombs please).

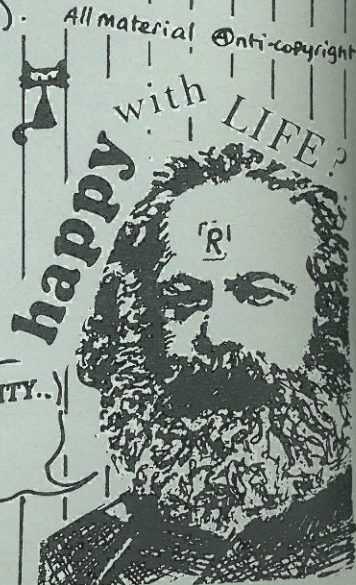

Colonel John Walton, who chairs the police authority, called on people not to "heap blame on the police for the crime rise". "Law abiding begins in the home and goes on through school," he said.

Unfortunately due to anticipated C.I.D investigations, I am a little less than enthusiastic to give my home address, so the best address to contact BIGOT at is:

HERALD OF FREE PROFIT!!

Evidence now suggests that the cause of the capsizing of the ferry, Herald Of Free Enterprise was the bow doors not being (completely) closed even as it left the harbour.

To anyone 'reasonably sound in mind' the idea of setting off with the doors still open is ludicrous. But doing so saves the ferry operators time- a quicker crossing, and more crossings per day,- both keeping the consumer happy.

More, quicker crossings also, by coincidence, makes the operator more money, as does keeping the customer satisfied (more likely to come back for more), so both are in the interests of the operators. "Herald Of Free Enterprise" - an apt name if ever there was one.

Ferries of the 'Herald..' type ('roll-on,roll-off') have always been recognised by shipping authorities, as being below satisfactory safety-standards, due to their lack of bulkheads. This disaster, however saddening, is yet another example of safety standards/practices being swayed/ignored to the benefit of the operating company. Where have we seen that before? Nukiller power? Union-Carbide (Bhopal)? etc.

However the responsibility does not lie solely on the shoulders of the ferry operators, but with us all.

With that desired increase in the standard of living, (though not necessarily in the quality of life), we have all (?) come to expect and demand technical speed and efficiency, putting our trust in the 'experts'. We all strive for that luxury existance, and we are willing to let safety standards drop so long as our standards of living increase. We can afford to gamble with our own lives,- statistically the chances are that we'll get away with it..this time. We expect to be able to get from A to B in the shortest time. Time is valuable,- only 4 weeks holiday per year. Who wants to be kept waiting an extra 15 minutes? ...Time is money!

"When we finish our bender, then we can have a FREE FESTIVAL," said Pooh excitedly.

Spaced out man!

I'll probably never be spoken to again for putting this article in BIGOT, but what the hell?..

To me if people want to smoke dope or drink alcohol etc. then it's upto them (as long as they don't harm others as a consequence (think before you light a fag in a room of non-smokers!))

Many people find relaxation through smoking dope etc., I've got nothing against a little temporary escapism through drink/dope occasionally. Some people find that dope helps them see problems more clearly (?), others that they find spiritual satisfaction thro' dope. Well if that's the case, so be it all well and good.

Before I seem to get too middle-classily-liberal (yuk) on the subject, I'll add a couple more points...

Why do some dope-smokers have the attitude that their actions are somehow rebellious, that smoking dope will help bring about the down fall of the system? Think again. Many 'smokers are trying to get dope legalised.

In most places, if they wanted to, the po-lice could smash the dope suppliers and circles in one foul swoop.. ..but they don't/wont. A regular 'potting-up' keeps you off the streets,- no trouble from someone who's stoned every night.

Some people who have noticed that we don't have any real freedom, say that dope gives you freedom inside your head. What goes on inside your head is important, especially when mind-control is what they seek. But so many people let dope control their minds, and if you can control the dope scene, well...!

Freedom inside your head is important,- as a starting block. Convey your thoughts into ACTIONS.

THE REALLY YUMMY - Recipe Page

With some really exciting recipes for you to try at home!

1. REALLY YUMMY CHOCCY CAKE :-

- 4oz. Raw cane sugar
 - 4 desert sp. Cocoa / carob
 - 1/2 tsp. Salt
 - 6oz. wholemeal flour
 - 3/4 tsp. bicarbonate of soda
 - 3 fl. oz. veg. oil
 - 1/3 pint Cold water
 - (• 1 tsp. vanilla essence
 - 1 dessert sp. wine vinegar)
- * Mix dry ingredients in bowl
 - * Add oil, van. ess., vinegar, and pour water over mix.
 - * 'Combine' with a fork - Do NOT BEAT.
 - * Put into 2 (7") 'greased' baking tins, and put in oven at 350°F / 180°C (Gas mk 4) for ~ 35-40 mins.
 - * leave to cool (out of tin)

* eat all in one go! * make another.
 AND don't forget NOT to open the oven before you're ready to remove your really-yummy-choccy cake, coz it will sink (especially if it rose at all in the first place!)

For a very unhealthy but really yummy filling - mix:

- 2oz. (vegan) margarine
- 2oz (raw cane) sugar,
- Drop of (soya) milk / water.

2. REALLY YUMMY Hummus (sort of chick pea paté).

- 4oz. chick peas - Soaked for 4-8hrs (overnight)
 - 1 clove garlic
 - 1 tablesp. veg. oil
 - 2-3 tsp. lemon juice
 - bit of paprika
 - Salt + Pepper (like peanut butter, but made with sesame seeds - from wholefood shops)
- * Simmer chickpeas for 1 1/2 - 2 hrs in unsalted water.
 - * Mash / liquidize all ingredients together + little bit water to make smooth texture.
 - * dead yummy with warm pitta bread, on toast etc.

33 1/2 REVOLUTIONS per minute..?

Well before you go tearing your way through the next pages looking for that all-so-important interview with that all-so-radical band, with their all-so-importantly-radical views on the state of the world (or the world of the state) let me tell you there are none. So there!

But why? Why have I sacrificed the potential to sell infinitely (?) more copies of this 'zine by not having any band interviews, you are wondering. If you are I shall tell you you aren't I shall tell you anyway...

Well why are some of today's circulating zines so bloody boring? - cos they're full of interview after interview - same questions, same answers. It is often interesting to know what others think, and it is vital that we share our thoughts + knowledge (and share our yummy ginger biccies!), but why are the thoughts of these 'alternative rock-stars' held so holy? What about your own thoughts? (Have you any?)

Are you one of the 'black-clad revolutionaries' who seem to drift between gigs, reading 'zine articles about how this or that band got through 16 bassists in 4 months, etc. (Now I'm in a really mean mood!)

"If I can't dance to it, it's not my revolution." Well wot a load of piffle. (Yes piffle). I'm all for a revolution that we can ALL dance to, but if you spend your time just 'dancing' there ain't gonna be no revolution...and that won't do will it?

Don't get me wrong, there's no harm in enjoying yourself, we MUST, no I'm not trying to be a really trendy-puritanical-heavy party pooper, but if you think gigs/music/band interviews on their own are going to change anything, - open your eyes, think again.

If we really want to change things (do you?) then we've got to do more actions outside of going to gigs. (Heard it all before?)

By all means go to gigs, get your head blasted off, jump about and go completely WILD (yeah), buy the records - learn the lyrics, sing them on the bus... but CHANGE is gonna need that little bit more.

Did You Know... that HOLLAND & BARRETT, that 'nice - Let's Support Vegetarianism' 'health' shoppe is owned by BOOKER MCCONNELL that very nasty butchers & fish farmers? Why? - ff!

Let a man but dress differently from his fellow creatures and he becomes an object of scorn and ridicule. The only law which is really lived up to whole-heartedly and with a vengeance is the law of conformity. So there!

Hip Hop? fuck it!

revolution? no thank mate!

HAVE YOU SEEN THE SQUAD CARS, PACKED WITH BOYS IN BLUE?..... 9.

INSIDE the lights flash. Illuminated faces of red and blue. Bodies silhouetted against the strobe. Friendly atmosphere. Music plays loud. Not too loud, but just loud enough to make any attempts at serious conversation futile. No denims. Smart casual or trendy dress only. Friendly atmosphere. Faces, make-up, the mask is on for the evening. Don't reveal your real self, maintain the disguise, portray the right image. Smiling faces. Friendly atmosphere... until the drunken brawls after. Friendly atmosphere. Boys will be boys. "Looking at my girl, were ya?" Meet someone new. Ask her to DANCE. Go along with him, some of the way. Play the game. Tow the line. Forget your troubles. Concentrate on getting it right, tonight. Not love, just sex. Fun. Fun. Friendly atmosphere. And the music goes on... DANCE. Dance all night.

BUT outside it's dark. A cold world lurks. Unfamiliar, hostile. The police are patrolling the streets, again. Riot windscreen shields on their vans- ready. Waiting. Prepared. Expectant. Something's gonna blow. Clamdowns, but the sirens are being put up. Prepared. Ready. Expectant. Waiting. The bunkers are built, Ready, Expectant. Prepared. Waiting to be used. The planes fly over, again. Another mission? Another exercise? They're prepared. Ready. Waiting. On the streets it's tense. Something's gonna blow, They're building a war. They've planned it. They're ready. waiting, prepared. And all you do is DANCE.

..HAVE YOU EVER WONDERED WHAT THEY'RE GOING TO DO ?

big 'ot n. person intolerant or not receptive to ideas of others (esp. on religion race etc.)- big 'oted, a.
bigotry n.

ARE YOU wondering
why I chose such a jolly silly name as BIGOT for my mag?..
..well it's 'cos
people say I'm a bigot. Well maybe I am. However these people usually make this judgement because my opinions, my views, my thoughts differ from theirs,- differ from the NORM. (gasp!)

It is not necessarily that my thoughts and views are bigoted, more that those pointing the accusing finger and hysterically screaming "bigot" cannot (will not) accept those thoughts and views.
Maybe such people feel threatened by them, as they are 'challenging' and advocate changes in all of us. After all, who wants to change when you're married, got kids, car, mortgage, job....
So to escape, the accusation of bigot is let-fly, and once again I am distanced, isolated, divided from others. My thoughts are too much to comprehend, too different to accept, so the whole lot (me included) is rejected.

Well what is it about wanting to share, to love, about equality and happiness that people can't accept? It is the means to this end.
The means of reaching this goal I try to explain through my thoughts, my actions. I accept that others have their own views etc., but I cannot passively stand by as they put them into actions
if such actions result in the suffering of others.
THIS makes me a BIGOT.

12. I remember at school, how one male PE teacher used to call us "girls" as a supposed insult. What are you... a cissy?, a woman, not a REAL man? Well wot the fuck is a real man?

I think it is probably obvious to most that we are brought up in a society with certain attitudes ie. Man = rough, tough and tumble; Woman = soft, gentle and weepy. Social pressures are on us all to think this way. Now some people will tell you "ah, but things is a changin'", women are becoming liberated". Well don't believe everything the trendy-leftist paper seller tells you. Wimmin's liberation is more than the wife going out to work alongside the hubby.

All around we are confronted by pictures of 'well groomed women'. They are never FAT. And that slim, slip of a thing body is, to most, a REAL woman. It is inevitable that wimmin become self conscious about their bodies, and that's just how most men like them to be, "got to look right if you're with me". Similarly it is difficult for men to ignore such advertisements, and not let them affect their way of thinking about wimmin.

NO QUESTION ASKED

THE SCANDALOUS SEXY SIZZLING

Is their much difference between ad's showing scimpily clad wimmin leaving very 'little to the imagination', (and imagine is just wot men will do,) and pornography on the top shelf of every newsagent? Through the way people think and the attitudes that are produced, both exert a form of social control over wimmin, - losing their dignity, confidence and self-respect. The ideal submissive woman, - just what the real man has always wanted! Always available for 'giving one' to.

UNCENSORED

BARING ALL - THE OUTRAGEOUS ADVENTURES

MANDI AT LADG

Porn has seen a change over the years, it has become 'respectable'. Where it was once 'under the counter', associated with guilt, it is now openly displayed on the newsagent's shelves.

Many argue that porn not only provides sex information, but also plays the role of a 'safety valve' for men, yet their is overwhelming evidence for a connection between porn and violent crimes against wimmin.

Porn gives the idea that all wimmin are sexually available, open, submissive playthings. It gives a sense of domination + ownership (a bit like "love, honour and obey"). RAPE is an expression of power, not an uncontrollable urge. It is rape if the womyn doesn't consent, yet it is not illegal for a man to rape 'his' wife. The husband has the sexual rights over HER body, - she is 'his property', she has no independence.

Any man has the potential to rape. Most treat rape as a joke, and those that do superficially consider the issues dissociate themselves by saying the rapist was a 'nutter', or even by blaming the Victim (she was wearing high heels - asking for it, she was out late alone - asking for it;). 'RAPISTS' are not a minority, most men rape with eyes, rape with mind. Rape, as defined, is difficult to prove, and when the charge is brought before the 'law' it is usually (surprise, surprise) behaviour who is blamed. In court the womyn's (sexual) background, and lifestyle are brought up, as if if she has said "yes" once she can never again say "no". The rape of wimmin has become institutionalised, it is not an isolated event but a frame of mind. Society has a 'risk of rape' which increases as a womyn's independence increases, - a series of rewards vs. punishments, - a form of control. RAPE is socially established, and as such involves YOU. To stop rape, to stop the abuse of wimmin, is the responsibility of all men. We must look at the way we act toward wimmin, how we act toward each other, and put an end to these power games.

The price of love

THE "average" British housewife has been valued at £370. That's the sum put on her head by an insurance firm who have worked out the cost of replacing her with hourly professionals.

They arrived at this princely sum after checking out the rates of cooks, cleaners, nurses and so on. Being a shoulder to cry on, giving a loving cuddle and giving years of loyal support seem to be beyond price.

Strange (?) isn't it that Men can walk on the Moon, but wimmin still cannot get a safe, effective contraceptive.

If you're short of readies +/or gotta lotta spare time, then HITCHING can be a great way to get about over long distances. Here are a few hints...
 *Try to carry a bag/rucksack - makes you look as if you've got a definite destination + you're not just a mugger! (you could be both of course!)
 *Show a clearly written sign of your destination/next town/motorway etc. - gives you an excuse to carry a marker pen with which you can use to write messages to other hitchers on the backs of road-signs! eg. this is a shitty hitching place.
 *Stand where drivers can see you from a distance, + where they're likely to be going slowly (after traffic lights, motorway services etc.)
 *Look neat-ish (yuk) - gets you a lift quicker, don't bother with your 'psycho-hippy-drop-out rags in the hope of getting a lift from fellow types; most hitch themselves. You may be lucky especially festival times + areas.
 *Don't wait past motorway start signs (on slipway) 'cos it's illegal + the piggies will jump at the chance to harass you etc.
 *Mondays + Fridays are usually best. Sundays TENDS to be old biddies (going nowhere, slowly).
 *Blokes prefer to stop for wimmin. If you're a male don't expect lone wimmin to stop for you. Wimmin have every cause to be afraid of hitchers
 *If you're not happy about a lift, - don't take it.
 Humour has it that the authorities are going to make hitching illegal as part of the Public Order Act (already in!)...so, get out there and HITCH, Free festival season is here! Go for it.

WHAT WILL YOU DO WHEN THE CATTLE TRUCKS ROLL BY; PRETEND IT ISN'T HAPPENING TURN A BLIND EYE ?

I read a while back that over 440 people had been killed by 'police action' in South Africa in 1985.

If I asked you about our Government, you'd no doubt insist that it is not like that of S.A. Look a bit closer at the bigots in S.A., the Govt. of S.A. protects its own interests (political, social + economic) via the apartheid system.

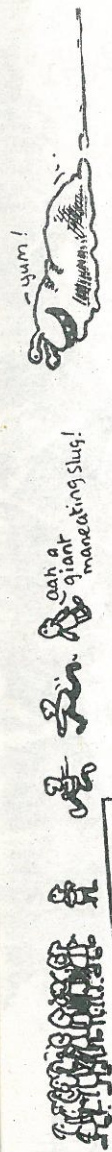

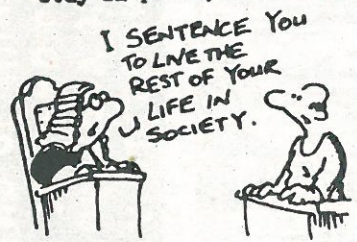

All around the World things are HAPPENING.. not only in places like the Phillipines, but also in France (student + railway strikes), Spain (student + workers actions), Greece (students etc.), Korea etc., Britain (Stonehenge, miners strike...). And this is on top of the 'normal' (!) activities of subversives. Yep these actions are being done by the more 'respectable', normal part of society.

BUT...we see the same pattern, same use of force by the Govt.s of these countries as in S.A.; students shot dead in Spain, beaten to death in France, riot police sent in at every opportunity to "sort 'em out", in an attempt to not only break heads, but the will of strikers, demonstrators, the people.

All Govt.s exist to serve themselves. You may fool yourself that they are democratically elected, and that they 'serve the masses', but time and time again we are witness to the extent to which they will go to stay in power, and maintain bigoted acts/laws.

With the forces of the state at their disposal, and violence as their tool, state 'leaders' trample, squash and squidge any groups holding different views/aims to their own. Not even respectably-middle class groups (CND etc) are exempt (phone-tapping). Not even that great pillar of British society the BBC escapes - workers there are vetted by MI5. With the peoples 'interests at heart', the paternal hand of censorship intervenes.

Govt.s violent and bigoted policies are often not only reflected in their control of internal 'dissent', but also in their foreign policies. If it is politically advantageous a Govt. will not think twice about launching an offensive against another country, be it by direct attack;- G.B. + Egypt (Suez crisis), G.B. + Argentina (Falklands/Malvinas), France -bombing of Chad, USSR -invasions of Afghanistan, Poland, Hungary etc., USA -bombing Libya, invading El Salvador, Grenada, Korea, etc. or by 'foreign aid' -arms supplies to countries at war, destabilising areas, financial 'aid' -enforcing debt repayments etc.

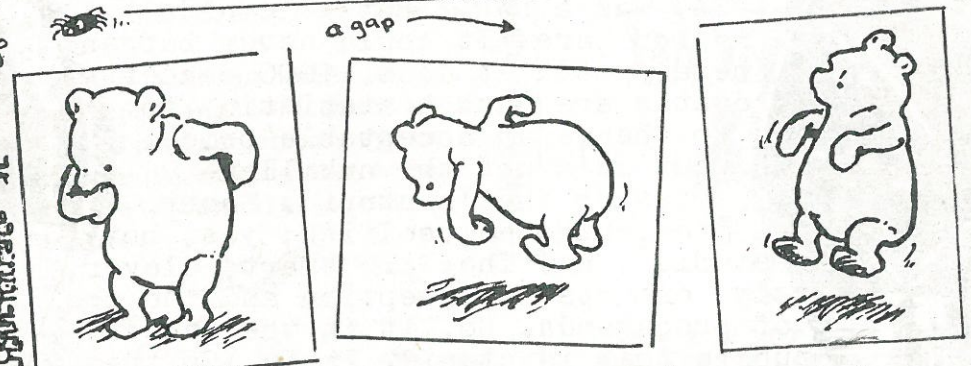

If your head hasn't fallen off from boredom by now, you may still be a 'believer' in government systems. "Not all Govt.s are the same". You may think Fascist regimes (Germany 1930's, Argentina 1970's, Chile -now) are run by nutters, but they are worked by groups of RATIONAL men sitting around tables planning killings, murders and oppression, according to their political beliefs. We are not talking about crazed lunatics, but about 'normal' rationally thinking people who think their politics are the 'answer'.

What is different in this country? Bigotry is not limited to those wielding power (President/magistrate/bomber pilot) but is necessarily inherent within the state system, -a refusal to hear alternative views, and an insistence to enforce their own.

Our 'democracy' is a sham; a festering rotten turd from which the pungent, vile odour of oppression seeps (good line eh?). It is fundamentally no different from that of the good ol' U.S. of A. It is no different basically, from that of USSR, S.A., nor any other states. Superficially there may be a difference (in colour). There is no real freedom, -you cannot live how you like, Stonehenge 85+86 showed that. "If we live in a democracy, we must accept what the majority want" -CRAP! Over 65% of the electorate didn't want U.S. Cruise missiles in Britain when they were first brought to Greenham. Did they listen to the people?..of course not..that'd be too wishy-washy. Voting rights? -a choice of 3, a cross every 5 years or so?

When will we learn? -a Government does not serve the people, it compels the people to serve it, to further its own political gains.

So take heed, if you are thinking of resisting the might of the state, BEWARE for you too may soon be squidged out of existence..AAAAAG G G G H

Pooh paused for a moment of reflection. "Well piglet," he started, "I would first bounce on him on my front, then turn over and bounce a little more. That's how I would deal with an angry Police-person." "Oh," said piglet, cheerfully.

AAAAAAGGHH!

Amazing isn't it, how stupid people can be? In the same month as was announced that Chernobyl will cause 1000 lethal cancers in W. Europe, a near disaster happened at Hartlepool nuclear power station, and work began on the Sizewell B Pressurised Water Reactor (PWR) nukiller power station..

Chernobyl is predicted to cause several hundred thousand cancers in the USSR, but our authorities remain adamant that only 1000 or so will result in Europe from the disaster.

They say that this number is not significant compared with the expected number of cancers likely over the same time period (30 yrs). However 1000 extra cancer deaths are a 1000 extra grieving families.

What's more they're really going to go ahead and build PWRs at Sizewell and Dungeness.

Chernobyl was a PWR. Three Mile Island (USA) was a PWR. But it couldn't happen here. It could never happen here, until it does. 1000 cancer deaths are just a statistic to them, - an 'acceptable' price.

But it's not the nukiller-industry that's stupid. Short sited, bigoted, selfish; yes, but stupid?, no! They are smart, clever, sly, experts at deception and the use of propaganda. No, it is the general public that is stupid. It is YOU that is stupid. You accept their lies, while outside it's raining radiation. You are being fooled, conned, and you let it go on right before your eyes.

if you are wot you eat... then I'd rather be a chick pea soufflé than a bit of dead flesh!

HERE is an interesting fact to ponder as you sit there and accuse people on the dole of being 'scroungers' and 'parasites' on the 'good tax-paying citizens' of this country...

..just a little while ago, the GEC Nimrod Early-warning radar system was scrapped in favour of the American AWACS system, with a total cost to the tax-payer of over £1 BILLION.

Of course £1 billion is a mere nothing when spent in pursuit of an effective early-warning system! But would you care to tell me what exactly you plan to do in your 4 minutes between siren and bomb-blast?, assuming of course that they choose to alarm the general public. Tell me where you'd run to? Tell me how you'd survive? Tell me what you'd be surviving for?

So you see early-warning systems are pretty pointless. Civil defence is a con. Your military strategies of deterrence are a farce.

So I see nothing wrong with people 'sponging' off your sick state as long as any money is given over to making war more 'fightable'/possible/likely or profitable.

Do it Now!
A really brrrillo tape awaits those who send £1 + S.A.E to the address opposite - So go for it!
yeah -

"Let us live in peace and harmony!" begs the little man. But the law of the universe dictates that peace and harmony can only be won by inner struggle. The little man does not want to pay the price for that kind of peace and harmony; he wants it ready-made, like a suit of manufactured clothes.

Think for Yourself
 Act for All!

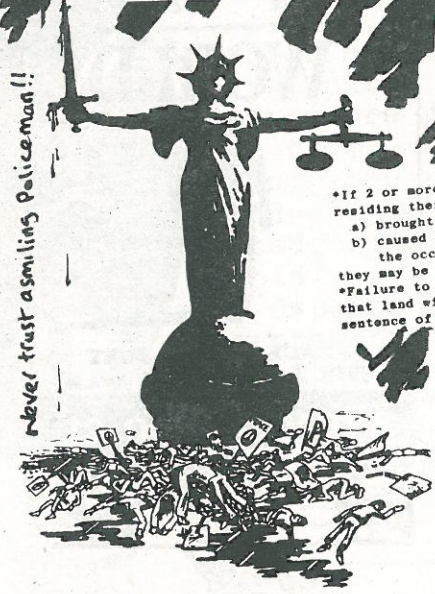

The PUBLIC ORDER ACT 1986
 came into force on April 1st 1987, but it is NO JOKE. It gives the Police the legal back-up for wot they've been doing for years + more.
 Oppose it, if you know wot's good for you! Below is a summary:-

- *Static demonstrations and pickets are allowed only if they satisfy conditions set by the police, with respect to time, duration, location and numbers participating.
- *7 days written notice must be given to the police, specifying the date, start time, proposed route, and name and address of the organiser(s).
- *Conditions on a procession/assembly may be imposed by the most "senior ranking officer" at the scene.
- *The chief officer of police, in conjunction with the District council, may prohibit all public processions for up to 3 months in that district.
- *Organisers of a procession etc. not satisfying police conditions face, on conviction, prison sentences of upto 3 months and/or a fine of up to £1000.
- *Participants of such a procession similarly face fines of £400.

- *If 2 or more persons have entered land "with with common purpose of residing there, and have between them, either
 - a) brought 12/more vehicles onto that land, or
 - b) caused damage to property or used "insulting behaviour" towards the occupier etc.
 they may be asked to leave by the senior police officer.
- *Failure to leave as soon as is reasonably practical, or return to that land within 3 months may both result, on conviction, in a prison sentence of 3 months and/or a fine of £1000

- *Ancient common law offences such as riot have become statutory.
- *Where 12 or more persons are present together, and one or more threatens or uses "unlawful violence", all are guilty of riot. A person convicted of riot faces a prison sentence of up to 10 years and/or a fine.
- *For 3 or more persons the charge would read 'violent disorder', carrying with it a prison sentence of up to 5 years and/or a fine.
- *Similarly a single person may be charged with affray, and on conviction faces a prison sentence of up to 3 years and/or fine.
- *Although, by definition, a person could be guilty of riot, violent disorder, or affray if their conduct were such to cause "a person present... to fear for his personal safety", NO such person need be present.
- *The offences of riot, violent disorder, and affray may be committed in private as well as public places.
